Introduction

My name is Katlin Kellow and I am a Mental Health Counselor licensed by the state of Washington (LH61664304). I received my Bachelor of Arts in Applied Psychology and went on to graduate with a Master of Arts in Counseling from City University of Seattle in 2023. I completed a yearlong internship at Pacific Mental Health where I received training working with individuals and couples. I am fully trained in EMDR (Eye Movement Desensitization Reprocessing) through EMDR Consultants and EMDRIA. I am a trained Domestic Violence Advocate with New Beginnings in Seattle, WA. I am a member of the American Counseling Association (ACA) and the Washington Mental Health Counselor Association (WMHCA).

Treatment Philosophy

Oftentimes individuals feel like they have talked about something repeatedly without any resolve. Or we find ourselves in situations where our logical brains know something, however when we are triggered another part of self-shows up. We might feel unable to control ourselves, and our thoughts or behaviors are acting in a way that seems unusual. Typically, this signifies that the work that must be done is much deeper. Treatment is client specific, as each person moves at their own pace. I work with clients to identify current life struggles, negative belief systems, past life events, attachment ruptures or anything else contributing to current difficulties. I take time with clients to identify strengths and resources, practice skills to aid in emotional regulation so you feel confident moving and working through the difficult stuff. Cultivating a safe and comfortable place is essential in the therapeutic relationship, a place where Clients can come as they are. I hope to create a space where I can support clients in exploring, growing, and forging new pathways. I want clients to walk away from sessions feeling heard, validated, seen, and sometimes lovingly challenged. I am a trauma-informed clinician who is influenced by IFS (parts work) and a Feminist approach. I am trained in EMDR and find that it is most useful in the deeper work when a client is getting stuck on the trauma cycle of repeating their trauma script.

Insurance Information

It is your responsibility to discover benefits prior to services. The contact number and/or website address are on the back side of your insurance card. Every insurance plan is unique, therefore when you contact member services you will want to ask specifically for outpatient mental health benefits, in network and/or out of network, number of visits allowed, annual deductible, and co-payment and/or co-insurance amounts, if applicable. Upon first scheduling, you will be asked for the details of your insurance plan's outpatient mental health benefits. If you do not have this information at the time of scheduling, a $150 pre-payment will be assessed in order to cover your portion of the cost, which will be refunded to you if no co-payment is required by your insurance. You may choose to delay scheduling until you have your insurance information, if you prefer not to place a pre-payment.

Confidentiality

The information exchanged between us is confidential, and your right to and the limits of confidentiality are discussed below. In most cases, a signed RELEASE OF INFORMATION (ROI) is required before healthcare information can be disclosed. There are certain circumstances under which information may be released only when a signed ROI is provided. I may also release information to an insurance company or a health care provider who is providing treatment to you if that person needs to know that information. Additionally, the law dictates that in some circumstances your signed authorization MAY NOT be required to release information. These cases are as follows:

- You are considered a harm to yourself and/or another person
- There is cause to believe a minor has been or may be abused or neglected
- There is cause to believe an elder or person with a disability has been or may be abused, neglected, or subject to financial exploitation, and/or
- Your records are requested by a valid subpoena or court order

Client Records

I do keep brief, written records of your treatment and the services that I provide to you. Under law, you may ask me to see and copy that record. You may ask me to correct the record, and I will not disclose your records to others unless you direct me to do so or unless the law authorizes or compels me to do so. If you request records or written information to be released there will be a fee of $28.00 for paperwork and time spent.

Your Legal Protection

Counseling can help to resolve conflicts, improve relationships, create change, and reduce/relieve distressing symptoms. It involves exploring, processing, and discussing concerns and problems which sometimes may elicit uncomfortable feelings, generate painful memories, or create vulnerability. While this is normal, understandable, and a necessary part of therapy, your participation is completely voluntary and you may terminate services at any time. Additionally, you have the right to receive appropriate care and treatment, and to refuse any proposed treatment.

The State of Washington has asked all therapists to convey the following information to their clients:

“Counselors practicing counseling for a fee must be registered or licensed with the department of licensing for the protection of public health and safety. Registration of an individual with the department does not include recognition of any practice standards, nor necessarily implies the effectiveness of any treatment.”

The State of Washington has also asked all therapists to list the following contact information for the Washington Department of Health, in case you wish to file a complaint for unprofessional conduct as outlined by RCW 18.130.180:
